PRINCE ALBERT.

Advocate, Feb. 9.

On Wednesday last, 4th inst., His Honor Mr. Justice Prendergast handed down judgment in the election petition filed against Mr. Moyers, M. L. A., for Kinistino, and tried a short time ago. Petition was dismissed, costs to be paid by petitioner.

Will and Mansell, real estate dealers, have just closed several large land deals west of Prince Albert, in Muskeg lake district. They sold 12,500 acres to an American company, 7,000 acres to a Manitoba man, and 6,500 acres to a local man. They have also several deals in view which they expect to close at an early date, and on account of the great demand for this land, they have opened a branch office at Duck lake with facilities for handling land seekers.

The Imperial Bank of Canada has purchased the town debentures, recently put on the market, at par. This is considered a most advantageous sale, and speaks well for the financial stability of Prince Albert.

At the Young Men's Liberal Club tomorrow night the canal scheme from Edmonton to Forte la Prairie will be introduced by the minister of railways. The town took over the electric light plant on the 1st inst. Percy Smith remains in charge for the present.

CARDSTON

J. W. Woolf, M. L. A., has received the good news from the department of public works, that they are prepared to put in a river bridge at once whenever it is desired. Commissioner Bullock, as the new head of that department, is making an excellent beginning.

On Saturday a raid was made on the Kari Hotel, L. F. Bonnel's cellar and the Woolf Hotel. Simultaneous action caught them "napping" and a big haul was made.

Little Douglas Stoddard met with a painful accident last week. He was out in the stable feeding the horses when one of the animals kicked him on the leg just above the knee, breaking the bone. At last report he was progressing nicely.

The work of piling the Creek is practically completed. It certainly reflects credit on the committee of works and property who had the matter in charge.

The Finch Creek school has been closed for some days owing to the prevalence of scat fever in that district. Star, Feb. 12.

Western Canada.

The following is from the Ottawa Citizen, and written by D. L. McDonald:

The incoming tide of the new century has swept Western Canada high on the shore of prosperity and landed her before the astonished eyes of the world. North America has always been preparing surprises. An audacious youth, the very concentration of indus. and energy and the synonym for progress, she has continually been striking up new airs just when the world has begun to grow accustomed to the last tune.

The new continent itself was a good deal of a surprise when it thrust its head into the world's history four centuries ago, but the new continent for a hundred years meant the little stretch of coast along the Atlantic seaboard. A hundred years more and at least one part of the continent had proven that she was no longer a seaboard ribbon, but a vast territory, that stretched fifteen hundred miles inland. A half century more and her civilization stood on the Pacific coast, bowed good morning to China, and turned around to greet the blinking eyes of the Old World, who could not quite adjust her mental spectacles to the clear realization of California and Colorado gold mines, limitless prairies, where grazed vast herds of cattle and sheep, where waved millions of acres of wheat and corn, and where cities, that represented the crowning and levelling of civilization, were rising in every hand.

The United States have had a history of which her Canadian cousins have been unashamedly proud. But Canada is awake at last to her own possibilities. She has prepared a surprise for the English speaking world a good deal larger than she herself anticipated. To tell the honest truth, Canada has been about as much a surprise to herself as to the rest of the world.

Western Canada is on the beginning to be known. What has for years been regarded by the uninformed as a hopeless wilderness, attractive only to the wild boar and the savage, has revealed itself to actual experience as a vast prairie, with a future so assured that men have ceased to question its possibilities, and only seek to measure them. The districts of Assiniboin, Alberta and Saskatchewan, with Manitoba, are at present the centre of interest. This section extends four hundred miles north and south and a hundred miles east and west and embraces an area of 350,000 square miles, and represents agricultural wealth second to no equal area in the world.

This vast region is rapidly taking on the characteristics of a new and vigorous prosperity. Bigness and confidence pervade the atmosphere, and indicate the break of a new industrial era. The great wheat yields of the past few years have become the index fingers of a near and more brilliant future, when the 68,000,000 bushels of wheat produced in 1901 will be doubled again and again. Western Canada is now the wheat field of Great Britain, and it is only a matter of time before she will be the bread basket of the world.

Western Canada is young, but youth, in this instance, has proved no disqualification. She not only has the vigor and vitality of a new country, where opportunity inspires activity, but she has the tools to work with. Her commercial expansion is keeping a marvellously equal pace with her industrial achievements. Her three great railroads, the Canadian Pacific, Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk, are reaching out their arms to receive the great influx of immigration and the commodities and machinery necessary to great agricultural enterprise, and in turn to carry away her multiplying products. She is rapidly maturing the means of supplying herself with the necessities and luxuries of life, and well-rounded civilization is the next to be. She is still not a future dream, but a present reality. Her future is only a question of development on a foundation already solidly laid. Whatever is necessary to rapidity and stability in that development she has at her command.

SHAWN AROON.

Last night Robertson Hall was filled to the doors to witness the playing of Shawn Aroon by local talent. The fact that it was given by local talent and for the benefit of the hospitals doubtless accounted for the large audience. Throughout the evening and between the acts, Clark's orchestra discoursed excellent music which was highly appreciated.

The play opened in the parlor of the King's Arms Hotel, with Farmer O'Grady (Prof. Hepburn) and Fergus Riordan (Mr. Kidston), Lord Fermoy's scheming agent, present. Riordan endeavors to get the farmer to lend him £200 ostensibly for Lord Fermoy. O'Grady borrows money from a rich-money lender, signs a note for £100. Shawn Aroon (Chas. Hamilton) then arrives on the scene in company with Bad Andy (Lord Fermoy in disguise). Riordan does not suspect the identity of Bad Andy and thus he is being watched in his modesty by his master, Patrick (Mr. Martin Buck) is a servant of Lord Fermoy and entertains a most profound hatred for his master's agent. Maggie (Miss Clara Lauder) is a maid-servant in the castle, and is the sweet-heart of Shawn Aroon, who figures as a very true friend to Lord Fermoy and the O'Grady's and a most pronounced enemy of Fergus Riordan. Miss O'Grady (Miss Eva Protheroe) was the unwilling recipient of the affections of Riordan whom she had met in London as Capt. Waters. Miss O'Grady was in love with Lord Fermoy and immediately detected him in his disguise. Fergus proposed to Miss O'Grady, who indignantly refused his suit and told him to go in good plain Anglo-Saxon. At this Fergus lost his temper and was on the point of striking her when Shawn happily arrived and defeated his evil intentions. This closed act one.

Miss Winnifred Protheroe then sang a very amusing comic song, receiving a hearty encore. Mr. Savard gave a French song in his excellent tenor voice which was received with great applause.

Act two opened in O'Grady's sitting room with Mrs. O'Grady (Miss E. Goodridge) and Miss O'Grady present. Six months have gone round and mother and daughter grieved over their impending ruin which had resulted from the maturing of O'Grady's note, no money having been turned out. Farmer O'Grady came in and Molly sympathized with her father in his trouble. Tom (Mr. W. H. Patterson) suddenly appeared and greatly surprised his parents and sister. Tom has been abroad for some time owing to his being accused of the attempted murder of Lord Fermoy some time previously. Old Hennings, (Mr. G. Lessard) a money lender then appeared and busied himself examining the costly furniture in O'Grady's house. Fergus again losing his temper at Farmer O'Grady, attempted to beat him but was checked by Shawn. Shawn and Maggie were then on the stage alone and after coming to a very pleasant understanding, both sang "There's a Dear Little Plant." Farmer O'Grady and Riordan had a private conversation and Riordan asked O'Grady for his daughter's hand. Molly was called in and again indignantly refused his proposal of marriage greatly to the delight of the honest old farmer. Riordan was then very unceremoniously expelled from the room. Tom and Shawn (fast friends) then entered and immediately after Riordan, Hennings, and Nipper (Mr. Chas. Mann) a private detective, who delivered a note to O'Grady, who tore it up, upon which a general mix up occurred, and at the drop of the curtain Shawn was standing before Riordan ready to strike if the latter moved.

Mr. Lessard then sang a very well received French song after which Mr. W. Clark appeared on the stage in the costume of a policeman and sang a couple of very amusing Irish songs which evoked great applause. Miss Eva Protheroe then sang a very pretty song, very creditably.

The next scene is in the anti-room at Castle Fermoy. Patrick, present as Lord Fermoy's squire, who is commissioned to keep his eye on Riordan. Riordan then came in and, riling Maggie's wrath, was slapped severely by her.

Old Hennings then came in to interview Riordan, and Bad Andy slipped in behind him and snatched himself, overhearing the conversation. Bad Andy appeared, and Riordan attempted to whip him out of the room but was himself whipped severely. The arrest of Shawn and Bad Andy follows. Tom was examined by Riordan and in the midst of it all Bad Andy revealed himself as Lord Fermoy. Hennings exposed Riordan's villainous conduct, and the latter gave himself up and begged for mercy but was sent out in charge of Nipper. Lord Fermoy and Molly became engaged and Shawn and Maggie also. Thus hangs again Regulus in the O'Grady family.

Shawn Aroon is an impersonator of considerable merit, and was perhaps the favorite character of the play. Fergus Riordan very ably acted the scheming agent of Lord Fermoy, who as Bad Andy took his part exceedingly well. Tom, Patrick, Old Hennings and Nipper were all good. Maggie was especially good and played the part of the typical Irish maid-servant in a manner that called forth the loudest applause. Mol it was excellent and especially so in her scenes with Riordan.

and with her father. Mrs. O'Grady acted her part very creditably. Dan O'Grady was excellent especially so in his intonation. His voice at times was pathetic and dissonant, and again firm and earnest. To him belongs the credit of the entertainment as he had the training of the different characters.

Clark's orchestra donated their services. Messrs. Barford, Berringer and Johnston acted as accompanists.

HORSE HILLS.
Mr. Richard Dunwoode gave us a call last week. He is running a farm and store at Slick Man's Lake, and is kept busy hauling supplies from Edmonton. He speaks in glowing terms of the Vermilion country as being the farmer's and stockman's paradise. Vermilion is in much need of a flour mill. As soon as the railroad is definitely located steps will be taken to build a first class roller mill which will do much in the meantime to stimulate wheat growing. He says the farmers in the meantime have solved the grain transportation problem by feeding it to stock. Buyers come at intervals from British Columbia and drive to the nearest railroad station, and pay better prices than local buyers. Mr. Dunwoode claims to have a spring on his farm at times that makes a hissing noise and emits an oily looking substance. He has been thinking of getting a drill for sometime to test this curious phenomenon. But he has come to the conclusion to wait until the railroad arrives. If he drilled now, and the well turned out to be a gusher, the oil or gas would only be lost.

FROM FORT VERMILION.
F. J. Ecker and Robt. Jones, of Fort Vermilion, arrived in Edmonton February 4th, from Fort Vermilion by dog train, distance of about 1,700 miles. They left January 9th being over three weeks on the road and making good time too. They say that the Peace river district is a very sure wheat country. The Hudson's Bay mill at Fort Vermilion, of which Mr. Ecker is engineer, (also builder for the district) in its December grinding turned out 500 one hundred pound sacks of excellent strong baker flour. There is still a month's grinding to be done and over 500 sacks will be turned out. The Peace river country has the advantage over other districts in the raising of wheat by having one long day from May the first to October the first. The price paid for wheat is $1.50 per bushel. There is no trouble from early frosts. The seed is sown about April 20th, and reaped the last of August. Last year the wheat crop was light and averaged about 22 bushels to the acre. In a good year the average is 29 to 30 bushels per acre. Wheat and barley are grown and vegetables flourish luxuriantly. Tomatoes ripen in the open air. There is an abundance of fish and game. Just the day before they left Fort Vermilion there were 20 moose killed in one bunch. Bear is also plentiful.

In connection with the grist mill there is a saw, planing and shingle mill. The lumber is used for local purposes principally. This year a considerable quantity is being sent to Fort Smith still further north.

MAILS FOR THE NORTH
Free Press.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—J. K. Cornwall, of Lesser Slave Lake, called upon Hon. Clifford-Sifton and Sir William Mulock to urge the establishment of a mail service into the Athabasca district. Mr. Cornwall showed that in the Peace river district, and as far north as a thousand miles from the American boundary, wheat of a most excellent character was now being raised, and that recently the Hudson's Bay company had erected four flour mills. He stated that he had lived in the district for some years, and was familiar with its agricultural possibilities, and that grains of all kinds were grown and yield as good results there as in old Ontario.

At the conclusion of Mr. Cornwall's arguments the postmaster-general decided to immediately establish an all round mail service to Athabasca Landing via Lesser Slave Lake. During the winter the mails will be carried by dog train and horses. In summer the water system will to some extent be utilized, but where not navigable, horses will be used. The post office at Athabasca, composed of English, half-breeds and Indians, is 6,615.

Though this service, which is to be effected at once, will be somewhat expensive, its establishment is absolutely necessary if there is to be any development of this vast and promising district. It will doubtless be pleasing information to the Canadian public to know that in that district Canada has a wheat bearing belt of one fertile lands as is under the sun, extending as far north from the American boundary line as Chicago is westerly from the City of Quebec. The minister of the interior promised Mr. Cornwall to arrange for a stipendiary magistrate at Lesser Slave lake.

Shawn Aroon is an impersonator of considerable merit, and was perhaps the favorite character of the play. Fergus Riordan very ably acted the scheming agent of Lord Fermoy, who as Bad Andy took his part exceedingly well. Tom, Patrick, Old Hennings and Nipper were all good. Maggie was especially good and played the part of the typical Irish maid-servant in a manner that called forth the loudest applause.
